ABOUT ME

Simon Neshama is a German rock-pop artist, singer, and pianist whose music blends emotional songwriting with modern pop and rock elements. Centered around piano-driven melodies and expressive vocals, his sound is both intimate and powerful, focusing on honesty, vulnerability, and atmosphere. Working independently, Simon has collaborated with freelance musicians and producers from around the world, primarily through online platforms such as Fiverr. This remote and international way of creating music has shaped his versatile sound and allowed him to experiment freely across genres while staying true to his artistic vision.

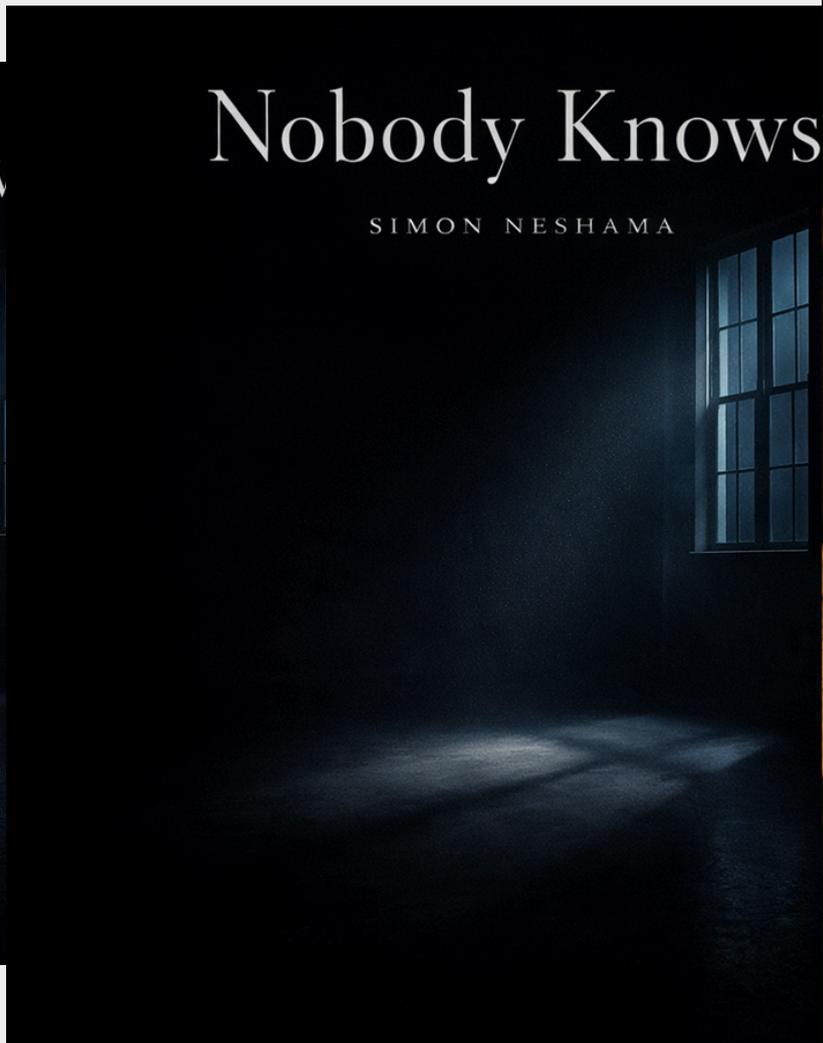

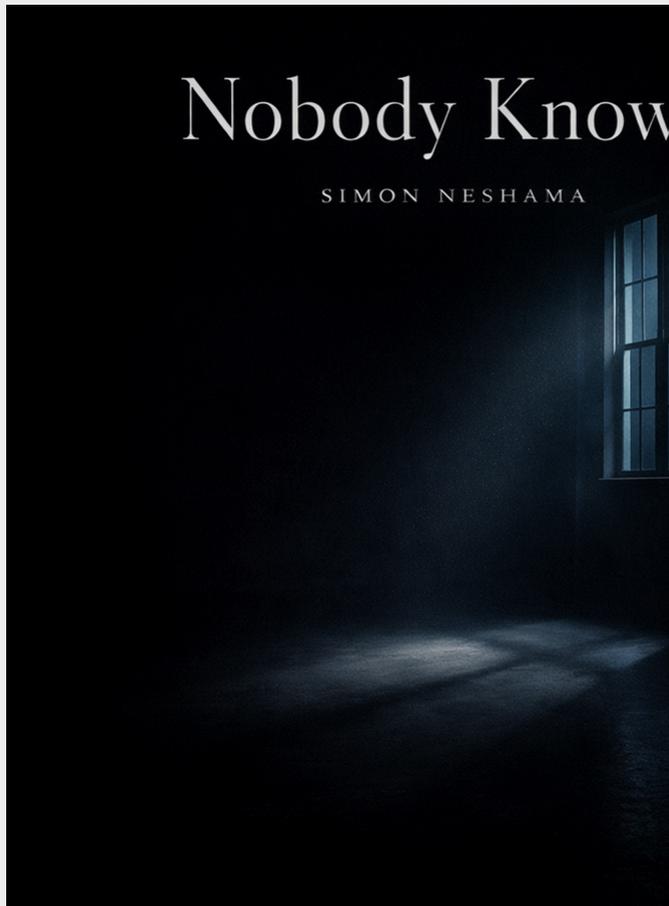

As a singer and pianist, Simon Neshama places strong emphasis on melody and emotion, crafting songs that connect personal storytelling with accessible rock-pop arrangements. His music is driven by authenticity rather than trends, aiming to resonate with listeners on an emotional level. With new releases underway, Simon Neshama is continuing to build his presence as an independent artist, seeking to reach a wider audience and connect with curators, labels, and listeners who value genuine, emotionally driven music.

Born in 1985, my musical journey began in early childhood at the piano and behind the drums. From those first encounters with sound, I felt drawn to improvisation as a space of freedom, where emotion and intuition could find their own voice. Music became a language through which I could express what words could not yet hold. I discovered my singing voice later in life, allowing it to unfold naturally and deepen my artistic expression.
